Work Experience:

- 2019 – present: Adobe certified freelance graphic designer: Working with clients to bring their vision to fruition. Put my design and creative skills to projects that feature on amazon prime video and sound cloud amongst others. I have worked with repeat clients and gained excellent feedback on platforms such as 99 designs.

- 2017 -2019: Consultant Histopathologist. Liverpool foundation trust. Diagnosing skin cancers in a busy teaching NHS hospital. I employed several transferable skills that will come in handy in my new career path including meticulous attention to detail, working under pressure, strict time management, managing expectation in addition to teaching and presentation skills.

- 2010-2017: Histopathology registrar: Run through programme in various NHS hospitals in the north west of England. Homing in my diagnostic skills, transferable skills include attention to detail, pattern recognition and recognising subtle colour variation to name a few. The experience also helped build up my communication skills both verbal and written

- 2008-2010: foundation house doctor: Trafford General Hospital: gaining experience in various fields of medicine from care of the elderly to paediatric age group. Working on the front line with patient vastly improving my communication and people skills.

- 2007-2008: medical secretary - West Middlesex university Hospital: Working as a medical secretary in a busy medical department. Involved in various admin processes in the department including record keeping, filing, and scheduling.
